Forecast For Yorkshire & the Humber
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Saturday 06 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cold with brisk easterly winds and snow showers overnight. Icy.

This Evening and Tonight:
Outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow gradually clearing southwestwards overnight. Turning very cold, with further sleet and snow showers feeding in off the North Sea. Some significant accumulations of snow likely in places, especially over higher ground. Icy conditions. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Sunday:
Cold or very cold with a brisk northeasterly wind, which will continue to bring frequent sleet and snow showers off the North Sea. Further accumulations are likely. Some brighter interludes. Maximum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Snow showers will continue, leading to further snow accumulations and icy stretches. Despite sunshine in-between the showers it will remain bitterly cold, with often strong winds and severe overnight frosts.
